MELBOURNE NOTES

My answer to the first question put by the "audience" is no. Secondly, the hostess should introduce her daughters and sons to the guests—not the other way about. This is most important. Addressing the guests by name, the hostess should say: "Allow me to introduce my daughter Ethel, or my son-formerly Mr. Blank, to you, my dear friends." Thirdly, the hostess, if up to her task, would do just as you say. In the last query, no-one with the exception of the hostess, should be introduced to everybody—only with the hostess, if it is a large party.

On the 2nd of March, 1882, he sailed with the contingent—“for Egypt, my dear,” said “Auntie.” And—

A STORY OF THE GREAT ARMAIDA.

THE WATCHER ON THE ROOF.

There was one other interior to the roomy, different feeling and atmosphere than did the others. It was a small, narrow room, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in.

Who would have believed that the blackened, the right-hand side of the great chimney in the hall-place of Garcia's house had been so completely destroyed? The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in.

There were hundreds of such contrivances. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in.

As at length the Sheriff was convinced that wherever Juan Garcia might be, he was in the hall of the house, he called him. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in. The room was empty, and the door was open, and the light from the street shone in.

COOK'S LANDING.

THE ANNUAL CELEBRATION.

It was ascertained yesterday that the trustees of Captain Cook's landing-place at Kurnell propose to curtail the celebration which is held annually at that historic spot on April 28. The action of the trustees is said to be due to a shortage of funds, and the trustees are said to be unable to meet the expenses of the celebration.

Give him a Soldier's Kodak!

"As right as a watch and tells the story better."

You are puzzled to know what to give that relation or friend of yours who is going to the front. Other people seem to have given him every suitable thing that you can think of—except "The Soldier's Kodak." Happy thought!

Every soldier naturally wants to keep a lasting record of the brave part that he and his own Company is playing in the Great War—and he can do it well and easily with the little Vest Pocket Kodak.

The Vest Pocket Kodak has no equal for the front or in the training-camp. The Vest Pocket Kodak is, in fact, the Soldier's Kodak. It has every advantage that the Soldier looks for.

It is Light.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK just turns the scale at less than half the weight of the regulation service field glasses. Its weight, indeed, is insignificant; it will add nothing to the heaviest of your kit. Carried either in the pocket or in the haversack it will hardly be noticed.

It is Small.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK is small, thin, and flat. It is little bigger than a silver cigarette case. It slips easily into an ordinary waistcoat pocket—and is almost lost in a tunic pocket. It is as small as a diary, and tells the story better.

It is Strong.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK is made of aluminum and steel. All exposed parts have a smooth black rustproof enamel finish. Accordingly, it will stand any reasonable amount of exposure and rough usage. Several cases have been reported where a Vest Pocket Kodak, in the pocket of a German soldier, was found to be in perfect condition after being subjected to the most severe tests.

It is Simple.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK is the last word in simplicity. You can learn to use it in half an hour. No skill, no previous knowledge is needed. There are no complications to master, and no unnecessary attachments to confuse the novice or get out of the way.

It is Convenient.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK is ALWAYS WITH YOU. NEVER IN THE WAY. It is an ever-ready Kodak that needs no focusing. Pull out the front, press the little trigger, and the picture is yours. You can take eight pictures without reloading—and then you have only to put in another cartridge. The Vest Pocket Kodak can be loaded with Kodak Film in broad daylight, much as you load a revolver.

Size of Picture.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK compresses a wide view into a little picture—2 1/2 inch long and 1 1/4 inch wide. It is then easy to make enlargements of any size.

Choice of Lens.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK, when fitted with a single lens (2 1/2 inch model), gives clear sharp pictures in bright sunlight. However, should take at least the 50° model, fitted with a Kodak Anastigmat Lens. This, being twice as "fast," gives capital pictures, even in a much poorer light.

Finishing of Pictures.

THE VEST POCKET KODAK takes eight pictures on one cartridge of Kodak Film—and Kodak Film keeps fresh for over a year. This is a great advantage, because men in the fighting line have few chances of sending their pictures home. However, you can get your pictures printed without any delay or trouble. The work can be done by any Kodak dealer in a day or two.

REMEMBER—

The use of a mere Dentifrice will NOT prevent Teeth Decay.

The direct cause of decay are acids produced by food remnants between the teeth. To counteract these acids and to remove the conditions under which they are formed, you need PEBECO, the tooth paste that Doctors and Dentists recommend. PEBECO has a very vital message for those who care about the preservation of their teeth. All it asks is a chance to make good its promises—prove its many exceptional qualities.

Pebecco Tooth Paste

IS MUCH MORE THAN A DENTIFRICE.

COMPLETE THE ATTACHED COUPON FOR A Free Tube of Pebecco and Acid Test Papers.

The test papers will show whether you, too, have "Acid Mouth," and how PEBECO counteracts it. The trial tube will show you how a real dentifrice tastes and acts.

AUSTRIANS

A NEW MOVE.

THE WESTERN FRONT

GERMAN LOSSES.

A largely reinforced Austrian army is threatening the Russians' left flank in Galicia.

A violent battle is developing in the neighbourhood of the Usok Pass, which the enemy hold.

The "Temps" says the Russians are advancing on an eighty-mile front, and are within three days' march of the Hungarian plains.

A German attempt to retake Bean Sejour (Champagne) was repulsed with heavy losses.

"Eye-witness" with the British forces estimates that the German resistance is gradually weakening.

It is reported that the liner Wyfar, which was badly damaged by a torpedo or a mine, has been beached at Queenstown.

The U24 placed bombs aboard the Glasgow steamer President, and towed the crew to a fishing smack near by.

There is no confirmation of the rumours of a battle in the North Sea, though heavy cannonading has been heard.

GERMAN FAILURES.

HEAVY LOSSES.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

It is officially stated that the Germans on Thursday last attempted to retake Bean Sejour (north-east of Perthes, in the Champagne region).

After a short bombardment their infantry attacked in force, led by volunteers from all the regiments concerned, on the east and west salients to the north of the fort. On artillery caught them on the flank and literally mowed them down.

Five of the enemy regained their trenches. The Germans made a second attack, and despite very heavy losses gained a footing in the eastern trench, which they held throughout the night against counter attacks.

The Germans directed fresh attacks on other trenches on Friday, the French artillery rained shells on the outermost trench, where the Germans had crowded four hundred men. Then the French, with fixed bayonets, charged. Only one of the four hundred Germans survived. The French losses were very small.

A NIGHT ATTACK.

FUTILE SACRIFICES.

The "Daily Chronicle" Paris correspondent writes: The Germans, desiring to counteract the French triumph at Les Bureaux, selected a seven miles' line along the Aisne. They expended millions under the French trenches on Saturday, four miles north of Albert. Several bayonet encounters followed.

The battle began in earnest at midnight. Tremendous cannonading awakened the citizens of Amiens. Unfortunately for the Germans they had selected an impenetrable spot, and the clearness of the night was favourable for the French rifles and machine-guns.

The Germans came on shoulder to shoulder shouting, "Heil! Heil! Heil!" in front of the French trenches was piled high with dead and dying. Artillery prevented German reinforcements from mustering.

The French loss was comparatively slight.

ENEMY'S RESISTANCE.

"Eye-witness" with the British headquarters, says: The Belgians brilliantly drove on the Germans on April 5 from a redoubt constructed on the west bank of the Yser. Most of the garrison were killed or drowned in attempting to escape across the river.

Though a month has passed since Neuve Chapelle was captured by the British, it is significant the enemy has not attempted to retake from any quarter. It is also instructive to note a gradual weakening of the German resistance the past four months. It is practically an admission that the Germans with the troops at their disposal are unable to avenge the defeat.

There is clear evidence that something has gone wrong at Lille during the fighting at Neuve Chapelle. The large number of German troops who have been removed to Tourcoing. The confidence of the German troops has been decreasing since Christmas.

GERMAN ALLEGATIONS.

"Eye-witness" referring to statements in German newspapers that the English at Neuve Chapelle drove the Sikhs and Pathans with applied hands in front of them, and also that the British used German prisoners in the same way, describes the story as a magnificent lie.

"Eye-witness" also quotes the statement of German officers that the "Frankfort" carried that 250 English soldiers dispersed with German grenadiers induced a party of German soldiers to join them and then shot them down.

ALLIES' POSITION.

COULD BREAK THROUGH

BUT WANT MUNITIONS.

LONDON, April 13. Lord Durham, speaking at a recruiting meeting at Chester-le-Street, stated that Field-Marshal French recently said: "Our men are individually superior to the Germans. I know that when the time comes they can break through, but they want more munitions. We want to pound the enemy and go on pounding, regardless of expense, because it will save the lives of gallant men."

Another general said: "The ball is at our feet. We can kick it if we have munitions."

FRENCH MILLIONS.

TO BE LET LOOSE.

PARIS, April 13. M. Viviani (the Premier), addressing the Council-General, said Germany thought to find France disunited and frivolous. Instead, they found a wall of iron and a heroic resistance, against which they broke their best battalions. The Allies were now pounding armies which the German leaders had not prepared for a struggle so bitter and prolonged. Millions in arms were about to be let loose.

France did not want war, but would carry on to the end, until Europe should be liberated, Belgium free, Alsace-Lorraine restored, and Prussian militarism crushed, because the peace of the world was irreconcilable with its bloody crimes.

ADDITIONAL RESERVES.

M. Millerand, Minister of War, has called up the 1880 class, comprising men of 46, who are to be used to guard communications.

The 1916 class joined the colours to-day, amid enthusiastic send-offs.

CARPATHIANS.

NEW DEVELOPMENT.

FLANK THREATENED.

PETROGRAD, April 13. An Austrian army, largely reinforced, has reached 377 (44 miles south of Lemberg, and 46 miles north-east of Usok), and is threatening the Russian left flank, thereby assisting the Austrian attack at Bostok and Usok.

A communiqué states: A violent battle is developing in the region of the Usok Pass, which the enemy hold.

EIGHT DAYS' BATTLE.

AUSTRIANS' POSITION.

LONDON, April 13. The "Temps" says an eight days' battle in the Carpathians has ended. The Russians are advancing on an eighty-mile front, and are within three days' march of the Hungarian plains.

The enemy's resistance was extremely stubborn, especially where the Hungarians were defending the heights, but their daily losses were enormous, and their reinforcements were insufficient.

Now the armies of Generals Bolevitch and Bemeroff find their communications imperilled by the Russians between Stropok and Smolinsk and Smolinsk and Volok, and, therefore, retreat.

The Fourth Army of the Archduke Joseph Ferdinand, which is in the North Carpathians, and that of General Linzinger, before Kovlova, are imperilled, and must bring their fronts in line with that of General Bolevitch.

ROLL OF HONOUR.

LIEUT.-GENERAL LOMAX.

LONDON, April 13. The death is announced of Lieutenant-General Lomax, formerly commander of the First Division. Lieut.-General Lomax was invalided home owing to having been stunned by the explosion of a shell.

Samuel Holt Lomax was born in August, 1865, in the county of Kent. He was associated for many years with the Scottish Rifles, being colonel of that regiment in 1901. He became major-general in 1906, and was appointed to the command of the First Division in 1910.

GENERAL BOTHA.

NAVAL COMPLIMENT.

LONDON, April 12. A new destroyer flotilla leader which has been placed in commission has been named Botha.

The officers and crew have sent a cable expressing their congratulations to General Botha.

UNITED STATES.

GERMAN CRITICISM.

WASHINGTON, April 13. Count von Bernstorff's memorandum on the question of the Allies' blockade and the attitude of the United States has created a sensation in official circles, especially that portion charging the President and his advisers with accepting England's violation of international law.

Official complaints that Count von Bernstorff betrayed a secret, as the Note was confidential, without the consent of the American Government.

The "Herald" heads an article on the subject, "Bernstorff Must Go," and adds that his act is a deliberate defiance of the United States Government, and if it is not recalled he must be given his passport immediately.

GERMAN WAR LEVY.

ON OCCUPIED TOWNS.

LONDON, April 12. The German war levy on Lille, Roubaix, and Tourcoing for March and April amounted to £200,000.

SUBMARINES.

MORE VICTIMS.

BIG BRITISH STEAMER.

LONDON, April 12. A collier has landed 120 of the crew of a British submarine, which was captured at Falmouth. It is believed that the vessel was torpedoed off the Scillys, but it is reported from Liverpool that the submarine was lost on the coast of the Azores. Survivors state they saw no sign of a submarine. Suddenly an explosion ensued, and the vessel broke through. It was impossible to call for help. The vessel took a list, and the boats were lowered in a rough sea.

Later they were rescued by a collier vessel at midnight, thirteen miles from Queenstown.

GERMANS HELP CREW.

THE GERMAN SUBMARINE U24.

The Glasgow steamer President, near Eddystone, after an hour's chase. The crew took to the boats.

The U24's crew boarded the President and placed a bomb aboard. The vessel was then towed to sea. The submarine towed the crew to a fishing smack near by.

FRENCH VESSEL.

MONEY DEMANDED.

LONDON, April 13. A German submarine stopped the French steamer Frederic Frank (5,000 tons). The commander demanded money, which was refused. He then tore the French flag, and threw the ship's papers into the sea. The Germans then exploded two bombs before the crew were able to leave, but those did not sink the vessel, which was towed to Plymouth.

BOMB-DROPPING.

STEAMER'S ESCAPE.

ROTTERDAM, April 13. Two German aeroplanes threw 25 bombs at the British steamer Frederic Frank, but none of them hit the vessel. The captain, using a Martin-Henry provided for the purpose of exploding mines, fired twelve shots, preventing the airmen flying low.

COMMERCE RAIDERS.

LOSS TO BRITISH TRADE.

LONDON, April 13. German raiding cruisers sank 67 vessels with cargoes valued at £6,061,000. British trade for the same period amounted to £7,904,000. The Germans' share was £2,211,000, the Kaiser's £1,082,000, the Kronprinz's £1,158,000, and the Elit's £1,082,000.

THE NORTH SEA.

BATTLE RUMOURS.

COPENHAGEN, April 12. Further arrivals of Scandinavian vessels confirm the presence of German warships in the North Sea.

A Norwegian steamer reports that a British cruiser warned her to keep as close to the coastline as possible.

HEAVY CANNONADING.

MIGHT BE TARGET PRACTICE.

Newspapers express the opinion that the rumour of a naval battle are due to target practice.

LIQUOR MONOPOLY.

CABINET CONSIDERATION.

LONDON, April 13. The "Daily News" says Cabinet will consider the question of a State liquor monopoly on Monday.

BONDED GOODS.

LARGE WITHDRAWALS MADE.

LONDON, April 12. Large withdrawals of spirits and tobacco have been made from bond in expectation that the duties will be increased.

WAR PICTURES.

FRENCH ENTERPRISE.

PARIS, April 13. The French War Office has organized an expedition of cinematograph operators throughout the French lines. Many remarkable films have been secured.

WAR NOTES.

THE CARPATHIAN POSITION.

The Paris "Temps" in its review of the situation in the Carpathians suggests that the Russian advance in the centre has brought them to such a stage that Austrian armies immediately to the north-west of the Usok Pass and those further eastward, also on the northern side of the range, are now finding their communications imperilled, and will have to fall back. Unfortunately, this optimistic view of the situation is not endorsed by the official communiqués, from which it appears that the German army is operating on the northern slopes of the Carpathians to the east of Usok Pass has been largely reinforced, has pushed on to the field, that it has been employed to attack the river Stry, and is threatening the Russian left flank, thereby assisting the troops defending the Usok Pass and those attempting to retake the Bostok Pass, further west. This force on the Stry has the command of the passes behind Vereckia and Wyatlow, and is operating from a railway which runs through a tunnel between the two passes, the main line between Hungary and Galicia. Thus, this force need fear no interference with its communications until the Russians have taken Usok and swept across the range, and then the range. So far Usok is in Austrian hands, and the official Petrograd communiqué indicates that a stubborn battle is now beginning on the northern side of the range. The strongly reinforced Austrian army which is threatening the left flank, the Grand Duke would hesitate to push far down into Hungary from the Duka and Lupkow passes. It will probably be content to consolidate

THE CRY FOR MUNITIONS.

LORD DURHAM QUOTES GENERAL FRENCH.

LORD DURHAM QUOTES GENERAL FRENCH as saying: "Our men are individually superior to the Germans. I know that when the time comes they can break through, but they want more munitions. We want to pound the enemy and go on pounding, regardless of expense, because it will save the lives of gallant men."

Another general said: "The ball is at our feet. We can kick it if we have munitions."

It is believed that the German Emperor is at the rear of the Austro-German line advising operations.

THE LIQUOR PROBLEM.

AUSTRALIAN WINES.

LONDON, April 13. The newspapers are discussing the prospect of the increased consumption of Australian and French light wines, in consequence of the expected restriction of the sale of spirits.

NEUVE CHAPELLE.

GERMAN MUTINEERS.

PARIS, April 12. A French lady who escaped from Brussels during the last week of the war, and two companies of men with their hands bound, marched through the streets.

They had mutilated at Neuve Chapelle, and were being sent to fight the Russians.
